Circle of First Aid Stations Thrown About Philadelphia Section, Being Located at Dangerous Intersections of Highways

A circle of First Aid stations thrown around Philadelphia and the four adjoining counties and placed at dangerous intersections of main highways leading into Philadelphia, is the newest phase of local Red Cross activity. It is an effort to cope with the mounting mortality figures caused by traffic accidents which arise from the passage in and out of Philadelphia each day of more than two hundred and fifty thousand automobiles.

This practical measure which carries the preventive and emergency work of the Red Cross into the field where accidents constantly occur, was introduced in July by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter—the first Red Cross in the country to undertake a comprehensive effort of this character.

Simultaneously the officials of the local Red Cross offered free instruction in First Aid treatment to the local police and volunteer firemen in the four counties which, with Philadelphia, compose the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter—Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Chester. As a result 13 local police organizations have received or are under instruction now at their various sub-stations. The Fairmount Park Guards also are receiving such instruction twice weekly at their headquarters, 44th and Parkside avenue. The First Aid stations are in some instances in charge of police and firemen or civilians who are volunteers.

To date, twenty-three First Aid stations have been established in garages, service stations, fire stations, car barns, parish houses, automobile clubs and in two instances, in the headquarters of the State Highway Patrol. This far-flung circle of protection and instant help in time of accident, covers the Lincoln Highway from Morrisville to City Line on one side, and on the other from Glen Loch to City Line. Baltimore Pike is covered by Red Cross stations from City Line to the State line of Maryland, and officials of the local Red Cross hope ultimately to have between fifty and one hundred First Aid Stations so that all dangerous points on the main traffic arteries will be protected.

It is the hope of the local Red Cross Chapter ultimately to have this cordon of stations backed up by local police and other available local highway units who have been well-instructed in First Aid. The Red Cross offers this instruction free of charge.

In the period between July first when the First Red Cross station was opened in Springfield Township, and September 20th, there were fifty-five people treated after forty-seven accidents had occurred. Eighteen of the stations have been in use, and the treatments have ranged from the amelioration of bee stings and ivy poison, to lacerations of every character, crushed fingers, burns, fainting and shock. In several instances the injuries have been so severe that the accident victims were taken immediately to hospitals.

Each station is designated by a large sign reading "First Aid Station, Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter, American Red Cross." Each is equipped with a First Aid Kit which includes bandages of every size and character, splints, adhesive plaster, iodine, picric acid, tourniquets, dressings and other necessities for immediate accident treatment; a stretcher to be used as a bed in case of need, and a list of nearby physicians and hospitals, together with their telephone numbers.

On August 35th, the day that the First Aid station was opened at Gulph Mills, Montgomery avenue and Conshohocken Road, seven people applied for treatment as the result of a single accident.

The mounting toll of traffic mishaps with their resultant harvest of major and minor injuries and nervous disabilities, is evidenced by figures of the Highway Department showing that in Philadelphia during 1928 there was 12,806 road accidents as a result of which there were 15,063 persons injured and 374 killed. In the State of Pennsylvania in 1928 there were 24,387 accidents.

The Red Cross First Aid Stations now in operation on highways leading out of Philadelphia in the Counties of Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery and Chester are located as follows:

On Roosevelt Boulevard at Cottman street; at South Langhorne in the State Highway Police Barracks; in Morrisville at Lincoln Point Service Station; at Radnor, at the intersection of Lancaster Pike and Route 320; at Strafford, at the intersection of Spread Eagle Inn at Lancaster Pike at Route 652; at Paoli at the Fire House; at Glenloch, at Lancaster Pike and Route 29; at the Keystone Automobile Club; at Springfield at Baltimore Pike and Woodland avenue; at Lima, at Baltimore Pike and Lawrence's Service Station; at Concoedville, at Baltimore Pike and Route 22; at Nottingham, at the intersection of Glenroy Road; at Ridge Pike and North Lane; at Collegeville, in Saylor's Garage; at Gulph Mills, at the intersection of Montgomery avenue and Conshohocken Road; at Swarthmore, at Yale avenue and Sprout Road; at Broomall, at the intersection of Chester Pike and Route 320; on Bethlehem Pike, at the intersection of the Pike and Welsh Road; at Whitemarsh in St. Thomas' Parish House; at Willow Grove, in the Philadelphia Rapid Transit car barn; at Darby, at the intersection of Chester Pike and Parker avenue, and at Cornwells Heights at H. H. Dettmer's Garage.

ARTHUR R. SPICER WEDS MISS MARGARET SMITH

Ceremony Performed in the Bristol Methodist Church Saturday Afternoon

REV. HESS OFFICIATES

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when Miss Margaret Anita Smith, daughter of Mrs. Ellen J. Smith, of Bath street, became the bride of Arthur R. Spicer, son of Mrs. Arthur Scull, of Midway.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Hess, pastor of the church, and Miss Marion Smith, of New Buckley street, played the wedding march. Miss Louise H. McCoy, of Cedar street, was bridesmaid while Mr. George Spicer, of Midway, acted as best man.

The bride wore a beautiful silk lace dress of Jeanne D'Arc blue, featuring the uneven hemline, short in the front and long in the back, and a large Bertha collar adorned the front of the dress which ended in cape effect to the waistline in the back. She wore a hat to match her dress and carried a bouquet of briar cliff roses.

Miss Louise McCoy looked attractive in a gown of orchid lace which also featured an uneven hemline and was made jacket effect. She wore a hat to match and carried a bouquet of butterfly tea roses.

Miss Marion Smith, organist, was attired in a gown of pink georgette. After the ceremony the bridal party, relatives and friends, journeyed to the Golden Glow Tea Room at Hartsville, where a dinner was served at six o'clock to about forty-five guests.

Later in the evening, the bride and groom left on a motor trip through the south. They will be gone about ten days.

Mrs. Spicer wore as her traveling costume, a dark blue velvet ensemble trimmed with a gray squirrel collar, blue hat and grey slippers and stockings.

Upon their return the couple will reside in one of the Croydon Manor apartments.

Mrs. Spicer is a native of Bristol, having attended public schools and graduated from Bristol High School and also Peirce Business College in Philadelphia. Up to the time of her marriage, she was employed at the Farmers National Bank. Mr. Spicer is a native of Hulmeville, graduating from high school and also Banks Business College of Philadelphia. At the present time, Mr. Spicer has the Manor Market store at Croydon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Spicer are well known here and have hosts of friends. They were recipients of many beautiful and useful wedding gifts.

ALL FOR THRILLS

Juvenile Bristol has devised a new pastime for the purpose of getting thrills.

Standing aloft box cars in the P. R. R. yards at North Bristol the boys leap into cars filled with sand as they drift down over the "hump" after being weighed.

In this fashion the youngsters ride the distance from just below the scales nearly to Jefferson avenue.

It is a dangerous sport and parents are advised to warn their children if they are indulging in it.

HARRY CLAYTON IS NAMED HEAD OF G. O. P. IN COUNTY

Annual Meeting of Republican Committee Largest Ever Held in Recent Years

SENATOR FESS SPEAKS

Lauds Protective Tariff and Says Republicans Have Kept the Faith

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 30.—The Bucks County Republican Committee met here Saturday afternoon and completed the preliminary arrangements for the general election in November when several county offices are to be filled.

The most important business to come before the committee was the election of a chairman to succeed Hiram H. Keller, who was recently elevated to the judgeship. Keller had been chairman of the County Committee for the past 18 years.

The committee organized by the election of A. Harry Clayton, Doylestown, as chairman; Mrs. Clarence J. Buckman, wife of Senator Clarence J. Buckman, Langhorne, vice-chairman; Edward B. Watson, Doylestown, secretary; Eleanore K. Worthington, Hartsville, assistant secretary; William H. Satterthwaite, Doylestown, treasurer.

The meeting was the largest gathering of the political workers held here for the past several years. There were nearly 400 men and women in the assemblage.

After routine business had been transacted and officers elected for the ensuing year the session adjourned for luncheon. Reconvening in the afternoon session the meeting was addressed by United States Senator, Simeon D. Fess, Ohio; Judge Hiram H. Keller, Doylestown; Congressman Henry W. Watson, 9th Congressional District; Arthur M. Eastburn, Bucks County District Attorney.

The various county officers who will be candidates on the November ballot were introduced as follows:

Harvey B. Fitzgerald, Quakertown, aspirant for office of director of the poor; Stacy B. Brown, Newtown, jury commissioner; Hiram H. Keller, Doylestown, candidate for law judge; Arthur M. Eastburn, seeks re-election as district attorney; John L. High, prothonotary.

Senator Fess in his address dwelt upon the tariff and with bitter sarcasm he attacked the so-called Independent Republican members of the Senate.

"It would be an easy matter," said the Senator, "to pass the tariff bill, provided the 14 and sometimes 15 so-called Independent Republicans stood loyal to their party."

He stated that at present there are 55 Republican, 39 Democratic and one Farm-Labor Senators in Washington. One chair, that of Senator-elect Vane, of Philadelphia, is vacant. Of the 55 Republicans, he said, 14 align themselves with the Democrats on the various items which are being discussed and are causing the Senate to "legislate by exhaustion," nothing being done until one or the other is too tired to further debate a question.

"The Republicans find themselves charged with the responsibility to pass a tariff measure but without the power to do so. I believe, however, that the tariff bill will be passed—if not before the convening of the general session it will be shortly thereafter."

Senator Fess showed how the Republicans had kept faith with the farmers. He cited the three reasons for calling Congress into special session and said that Congress had named a farm board; had appropriated $500,000,000 for the relief of agriculture and had taken up the question of marketing, just as the Party had promised to do in its platform at Kansas City.

Senator Fess told of the ridiculous competitive tariff which the Democrats introduced when they were last in power and he referred to the new tariff as strictly a protective one, which not only affords protection to the largest manufacturer of an article in the United States, but to the smallest producers as well, giving each an equal opportunity to market his product.

The speaker said that in his mind it was not merely a question as to whether or not large groups of industry such as the trusts could compete with foreign made products but that it was necessary for the United States to protect the small independent manufacturer as well.

Congressman Watson made a vigorous plea for peace and said that he hoped the coming visit of Premier MacDonald, of England, would lead to a solution of the cruiser question. "May they all be crusaders of peace rather than crusaders of war," he said.

District Attorney Eastburn spoke briefly and expressed his appreciation for the large vote of confidence which was given him at the primary election.

Judge Keller expressed his appreciation of the voters giving him the nomination for the judgeship on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

He told them that his elevation to the bench would not in the least change his relationship to them.

AMERICAN HOMES THE BEST

"Providin' a home" in the United States has become something more than a house, some furnishings and two store accounts, in fact the average home of today boasts of more conveniences, more luxuriant furniture and many more luxuries than the best homes in the smaller cities and towns of a score of years ago.

A bungalow or a "parlor, bedroom and bath" meant one thing with the last generation but means quite another thing with the present. There is more for contrast than comparison.

So revolutionary has been the advancement in the American standards of living that there is little solace for the young men and women who today embark upon the sea of matrimony in such a frail craft as "thirty-a-week" and one payment down on the furniture. Even the old-timers are finding themselves daunted by the new domestic demands.

How dazzled would our ancestors be upon entering a middle-class home of today with its overstuffed furniture, fine rugs, tasteful mural furnishings, pianos and phonographs, perhaps a radio, fine table service, relatively large libraries and with a garage and automobile in the back-yard. Surely not without less cause than for common folks of today to be dazzled by the luxuriance of a millionaire's mansion or a king's palace.

There seems little foundation for the oft-repeated lamentation that the American home is losing its attraction. On the other hand there are few today who can see where the home of the nineties or the early twentieth century possessed any attraction other than as the traditional place to eat and sleep. But then the home-detractors have undoubtedly progressed step-for-step with the home-attractions.

Why shouldn't the American people be the most contented, the most peaceful, the most ambitious and the most enlightened people in the world with such home surroundings?

A JOB FOR THE STATES

Investment bankers of the country are on firm ground in opposing federal legislation of the "blue-sky" order to regulate the sale of securities. Their opposition cannot be attributed to commercial motives, since they have been among the most active advocates of state laws for the protection of investors, and obviously these legitimate dealers have much to gain by the removal of fraudulent securities from the market.

They point out that the federal trade commission already possesses considerable jurisdiction over the peddlers of fake stocks and bonds or persons who make false representations for the purpose of selling securities. Eight orders were issued last month against promoters engaged in this sort of interstate commerce. The great need, in the opinion of the investment bankers, is for a uniform law to be adopted by the states.

It isn't faith in the country that upholds a bull market, but faith that some other sucker will pay more tomorrow.

Every little girl goes through a spell of playing "house." The problem is to keep her that way after the wedding.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

ITEMS OF INTEREST AS CLIPPED FROM NEWSPAPER FILES

The tramp law in Bucks county, according to the Doylestown Intelligencer, dated September 20, 1879, was bringing good results. For some years the county was over-run by these vagrants, who stopped at many houses or food and shelter. However, after the passage of this law, it was reported that very few remained in the county to disturb its residents. The same report it was held true in Philadelphia and vicinity.

It was said fifty years ago of the public school teachers of Hulmeville and vicinity that they were renewing the old time custom of walking. The teachers of the Hulmeville school lived in Langhorne and during favorable weather walked between their homes and the schools. Miss Mary Banks, who lived in Bensalem township, was reported to have made a practice of walking from her home to the Emille school, a distance of more than three miles, every day.

In news gleaned from the Delaware Valley Advance, dated September 13, 1877:

A rather lengthy article reviews the development of the wave of temperance which was sweeping over the lower half of Bucks county. The work was commenced by Francis T. Murphy in Philadelphia in the spring, and his disciples carried it into outlying districts. All through the Delaware Valley the meetings were held night after night until over 2,000 persons signed the pledge.

In the Newportville notes we find the following: "A violent shock from old mother earth was felt here on Monday, about 10 o'clock a. m.

A man from New Jersey presented G. G. Rose with two water-melons, each weighing 53 pounds, the largest ever seen in this place.

Owing to rain, the Neshaminy Literary Society's meeting was postponed a week.

In Newtown Enterprise dated September 22, 1894, it was reported that the Langhorne Building and Loan Association chose C. E. Neeld for president; Warren J. LeCompte, vice president; Horace G. Mitchell, secretary; Gove Mitchell, treasurer; Harvey H. Gilliam, Stephen L. Kirk and William B. Parry, finance committee; John P. Black, P. M. Minister, William W. Gilliam, Ezekiel Pryor, Joseph K. Harding, Jonathan Mather and Henry Palmer, directors.

River pirates stole two large sail boats at Bristol and broke into the residence of Edward Swain, fronting on the river. They had their plunder tied up in bundles and the furniture carried out of the house when they were scared away by the unexpected return of the family from the seashore.

The annual reunion of the 104th Penna. Volunteers was held at Newtown. A parade was formed at the railroad station with the Thomas H. Wynkoop Post, the Newtown Cornet Band, the John H. Fisher Post, of Hatboro, the Hugh A. Martindell Post, of Langhorne, and the H. Clay Beatty Post, of Bristol, in line. The flag of the regiment loaned by the County Commissioners for the occasion was carried at the head of the procession. Colonel Harry Kessler came from Montana to meet his former comrades. After a dinner prepared by the citizens of Newtown, exercises were held in Newtown Hall. Postmaster General John Wanamaker, Coroner Samuel Ashbridge, of Philadelphia; General W. W. H. Davis, of Doylestown, and Captain Alfred Marple, of Langhorne, were among the speakers.

LIVE

where you work

Many people employed in Bristol are commuting to and from their work each day. This means an unnecessary expense and a waste of time. They must leave home earlier and return later than if they lived in the town where they are employed. They have less time for pleasure and less time to spend with their families than if they resided here.

Why commute?

Bristol as a place of residence offers every opportunity to be found in a large city. There are paved streets, sanitary sewers, good schools and churches of every denomination; periodic collection of ashes and garbage, police protection and ample space for outdoor recreation.

Housing is adequate

Housing facilities are adequate to meet the needs of all. There are dwellings here which will meet the needs of almost every family. Big six room houses with all modern conveniences including front porches and rear yards. They rent as low as $25 per month, and are comparable in type to those in the larger cities renting for nearly twice the amount.

You're a part of the

If you live in Bristol you are a part of the community. You are not lost in the crowds of a great city where often times your next door neighbor doesn't know you. Live in Bristol and participate in its affairs and you will find life much more worth the living.

RIVERSIDE THEATRE

A few years ago four Pennsylvania State college boys, Fred and Tom Waring, Fred Buck and "Pokey" McClintock, got together and learned a few dance numbers. They played two banjos, a piano and drums at their first dance at "Penn State" and displayed such a pleasingly original style of dance music that this first engagement led to calls for many others.

Such was the humble beginning of the now famous "Waring's Pennsylvania," the RKO music comedy extravaganza coming to the Riverside Theatre for three days beginning tonight.

For seven years they have traveled across the country playing record-breaking engagements in the large motion picture houses. In addition to these appearances they have played in London, Berlin and Paris and when signed up to play for "Syncopation" they were making New York a merrier place to live in by their headlined feature act in "Hello Yourself," the George Chooos musical comedy at the Casino Theatre.

These peppy jazzos play nine selections ranging from the theme song, "I'll Always Be In Love With You," by Sammy Stept, to Victor Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life." Others in the cast are Barbara Bennett, Bobby Watson, Ian Hunter, Morton Downey, Osgood Perkins, Mackenzie Ward, Veece Teasdale and Dorothy Lee.

Peppy jazz golden song, snappy stepping and a heart-clutching love story, are promised for patrons of the Riverside Theatre in this film opera of Broadway lives and loves, first of the radio pictures released by RKO.

Better Transportation Service for Lower Bucks County

The Delaware River Coach Company has begun operating bus service between Morrisville and Torresdale, supplementing and broadening the trolley service.

Comfortable, safe, speedy buses and courteous attendants will make this new service popular, we are sure.

Transportation service is now being given parts of Bristol and Croydon that heretofore have been without it.

The number of buses in operation will be increased in the near future, and every effort will be made to make the service fit the needs of the communities.

At present buses leave Morrisville for Torresdale at 5 minutes before every odd hour from 6:55 A. M. to 8:55 P. M., the last bus leaving at 10:45 P. M.

The first bus for Morrisville leaves Bath and Otter Streets, Bristol, at 6:25 A. M., 8:08 A. M., and then every two hours. Last bus at 10:08 P. M. From Torresdale buses will leave at 15 minutes before every even hour, from 7:45 A. M. to 9:45 P. M.

The fare from Morrisville to Torresdale is 60 cents. Passengers may ride between any point in Croydon and any point in Bristol for 10c, and between upper Tullytown and Bristol for 10c.

Time cards will be printed later and posted in convenient places.

GRAND THEATRE

In her first comedy role on the screen, Dolores Costello, Warner Brothers' beautiful star, is reported to have one of her biggest successes. The picture, "The Glad Rag Doll," comes to the Grand Theatre Monday and Tuesday, and is an all-talking film.

Miss Costello's role is that of Annabel Lee, a Broadway musical comedy actress, who has become engaged to Jimmy Fairchild, younger son of a proud and wealthy family which objects to an actress for his wife.

When John Fairchild, the elder brother, gets Annabel discharged from the show in which she is appearing when she refuses to give Jimmy up, she arms herself with Jimmy's burning love letters and goes to the family home in Philadelphia. As she threatens to give the love letters to a newspaper if the family continues objecting to her, John reluctantly invites her to spend the week-end, hoping to gain possession of the letters.

Annabel discovers a number of ugly family skeletons, so she is confident that she can make the family eat out of her hand, but all of her plans are

THE HOME TOWNERS

BY JOHN LEARY PELTRET
FROM WARNER BROS. "ALL TALKING" VITAPHONE PICTURE
...BASED ON THE COMEDY BY GEORGE M. COHAN...

CHAPTER I

IN the little town of South Bend, Ind., that is, it was a little town when this story begins, Vic Arnold and P. H. Bancroft were pals and chums. They ran with a gang that hung together through thick and thin, bad times and good. They shared their goodies and their likings. It was the start of a life-long friendship for all of them.

TIME went on, as time will do, and, before he was of age Arnold determined to try his luck in the Big City. Vainly he attempted to get Bancroft to go with him. But Bancroft was in love with Lottie. Arnold went his way to New York leaving "Pig Head," as he was known, to return when later Bancroft married, with Arnold as best man.

FORTUNE came to Arnold in the Big Town, and all the Home Towners rejoiced in it. He remained a bachelor, and every one at home thought it was going to be a chronic case. But one can never tell. One day Bancroft received a telegram asking him to bring his wife and be best man at Arnold's wedding. His pal was amazed.

MRS. BANCROFT was packed off to Chicago to get a gown for the wedding. With Bancroft she started for New York, stopping at Albany, over night, to visit a younger brother. Ban went on to meet Arnold and there was a happy reunion between these friends who had not met for many years. Arnold insisted the Bancrofts stay at his apartment, and not in an hotel.

Entertained "Wets"

Walter J. Fahy, New York broker, who it is alleged gave the "Wall Street Dinner" to at least ten Congressmen, who it is further rumored did not live up to their reputations as adherents of the "bone dry" delegation. It was Fahy's dinner that started things boiling in Washington from a prohibition standpoint.

Tuning in on the Talkies by Walthill

IN the natural color talking picture, "On With the Show," the dialog, at one point, leads to this: "Some day the worm will turn," says Sally O'Neill.

"Why should he?" wisecracks Joe Brown. "He's the same on both sides."

"Venus" is being filmed exclusively for the silent screen. Beautiful but dumb.

"Fancy Baggage" is what gets tourists into trouble at the Custom House.

WORLD SERIES TO TELL TALE ABOUT PLAYERS

By Davis J. Walsh
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Is Simmons a better outfielder than Wilson? Does Foxx really outrank the National League field as the leading first baseman? How good is Cochrane in comparison with catchers in the rival league?

It isn't often that you get the all-star ball players of the country under scrutiny at one and the same time. Usually these moot points have to be settled in privacy with the customary punch on the nose but this time the eye itself will make the settlement and the nose can have a rest. The world series between the Cubs and Athletics will feature as many as seven of the ten or eleven men who figure to break into any all-star team selected.

Hornsby at second base can't miss. He hasn't Critz's speed and hocus-focus stuff in the field but neither has Critz a half dozen other things that go to make Hornsby the great man he is, even when beyond the flush of youth. Grove is just as certain to get a 100 per cent vote as one of the pitchers and I presume that Bush, of the Cubs, is entitled to the other place.

Perhaps both Simmons and Wilson aren't due to make the team but, in any case, the one left over would get the outfield utility job. Which one would that be? You can write your own prescription on that, although general opinion will be inclined to regard Simmons as the better man. The real tip off, however, will come in the series where they can be compared, man to man and move for move.

Nobody, for example, would have named Jimmy Wilson for an allstar team after the 1928 games. He was the leading catcher of the league before the series and barely the leading catcher of the Cardinals after it was over. The big series is as good as any to decide whether a man really belongs or not.

For this reason, everybody will be watching Cochrane. Here is a catcher who is supposed to have everything—speed, arm, brains, punch, enthusiasm. They not only compare him to Kling, Bresnahan, Ewing and other immortals; some of them claim that he is the greatest of all ages. Will he fool them and fumble his great chance? It doesn't seem possible. Cochrane has yet to fall down in any pinch and it isn't likely that he will do it when the biggest of them all comes along, if Harnett is ready, which isn't probable, a comparison between the two stand-out catchers will be more than interesting. It will be a little world's series of its own.

Foxx got Mister Ruth's disapproval as the All-American first baseman but many disagreed and some of them rather violently. James can smite that baseball but he isn't the most modish of first basemen, so the deep students have decided that Billy Terry, of the Giants, was and is a more plausible candidate. Be that as it might, Foxx is no worse than very good at anything he does and remains, per se, as one of front row names in the group portrait of 1929 celebrities.

The rear row will have a few representatives—Cuyler, Stephenson, Haas, Dykes, etc.—in this series, too. In fact, the affair has everything in the way of talent; all it needs is a few dramatic values. If it gets these, it ought to be a wow.

Opening Football Game Ends in Tie Contest

Catholic High star fullback showed the way to the ball totters in this period.

When the second half began the fans noticed a changed team in the visitors who were now fighting mad and who wanted to bring out the stuff.

that earned them a 12-0 verdict over Phoenixville last Sunday. The team with Cibor leading the attack started a march down the field but soon were held for downs and the Bristol "Saints" punted out of danger. The Wildcats then opened up on an aerial attack which worked splendidly. The visitors on forward passes alone carried the ball to the five yard line. Here three plays netted but three yards, but on the fourth down Cibor found an opening through tackle and slipped past the final chalk mark for a six-pointer. The try for the extra point was successful because a Bristol player in batting down a forward pass hit it into the arms of a visiting back. The play ended the third chucker.

The "Saints" came out strong in the final session and after totting the ball to the twenty-five yard line lost out on a fumble. Later in the period the Richmond team again began its aerial attack. All went well until Greco, halfback of the "Saints," intercepted one and ran to the orange and black's (Richmond) forty yard line.

The closing time was drawing near, so Bristol tried its fuzzy formation. The pigskin was handled to the towering "Socks" Seneca, who crashed past four men and then had an open field for the touchdown. J. Missera booted the extra counter with Quici holding the ball.

"Gene" Spadaccino, star halfback for Bristol, will probably be out for the remainder of the season because of an injury he received in the third quarter.

Kornstedt, in his debut in a Bristol uniform, Seneca, and J. S. Fine led the locals' attack, although the entire team must be given due credit because of their excellent playing.

Swiniski, Cibor and Witkowski were the visiting team's best. Swiniski and Witkowski are both former stars of Catholic High School.

Next week the Bristol "Saints" will play the Venango Bears, another team composed of former high school and college stars. "Gene" Dugan has signed to play with the "Saints."

Europe Takes Calm View of U. S. Tariff

"In England, Denmark, Sweden and other countries the belief is the new tariff will not affect their exports to any great extent. In Great Britain, for example, it is estimated the exports to this country will not be reduced more than 10 per cent. All of the officials I met expressed confidence in President Hoover's ability to deal with trade relations abroad. The disarmament problem is being followed with great interest, and the people are awaiting the effect of the visit to this country of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald."

Nassau in Ruins as Storm Moves on Florida

Twenty persons are reported dead and the city of Nassau in ruins from the hurricane that has been threatening the Florida coast for the past three days. Indications point toward severe damage in Florida, especially in the Palm Beach district, where the full force of the wind is expected to be felt. Key West is also in serious danger. Illustrations above show Nassau previous to the devastation caused by the storm.
